

Writing 4 Peer Review Updates

I received good grades on my first writing assignments, so I did not have a large amount of feedback from Alan to incorporate. For the most part, it was minor updates for style, clarity, and formatting. Furthermore, Neel thought that my first draft was solidly organized and didn't require too much additional attention (although he felt it could use some more detail). I added in some details to the technical discussion section: more on how companies would find the technical innovations useful, as well as some more description surrounding the challenges of auto-scaling NFs (like what specifically in the ONVM codebase needs to be refactored).
